CONSTIPATION

"I have some 14 days at a time without a movement of the bowels, not being able to move them except by using hot water injections.
Chronic constipation for seven years placed me in this terrible condition; during that time I did everything I could to get relief, but no relief came until I began using CASTORIA. I now have from one to three passages a day, and I feel as if I was rich I would give $5000 for each movement.
It is such a relief."

DESCRIBES THE FIGHT

Schley at Santiago Practically Repeats Sampson at San Juan.

MASSACHUSETTS LEADS THE SHIPS.

But Four of Which Take Part in the Reconnaissance—Cristobal Colon and Other Vessels in the Harbor Do Some Characteristic Spanish Shooting, the Former Being Struck Once by an American Shell —Nobody Hurt on Our Squadron.

Associated Press Dispatch Boat Dandy, Fort Antonio, Jamaica, June 3.

—For an hour Tuesday afternoon the Massachusetts, Iowa, New Orleans and Vixen, of Commodore Schley's squadron, exchanged shots with the Spanish fleet under Admiral Cervera and with the land batteries guarding the harbor of Santiago de Cuba, behind which the Spanish fleet is hiding. The engagement was the first which has occurred between the two naval forces, and was

But a prelude to serious work. No attempt was made by the American commander to bring on a general engagement, it being his desire to locate the batteries on the hills above the harbor, and to determine the position of the Spanish fleet.

Schley Goes Aboard a Battleship.
Shortly before 10 o'clock Commodore Schley left the Brooklyn for the Massachusetts, on board of which battleship he remained during the fighting. At 1 o'clock the signal to form column was hoisted on the Massachusetts and the New Orleans, Iowa and Vixen fell in, and led by the battleship, drew closer and closed to the batteries. When the Massachusetts had passed the harbor entrance by 500 yards a great cloud of white and yellow smoke burst from the two 12-inch guns in her forward turret, and two shells rose over the hull, one of them striking the Spanish flag-ship, Cristobal Colon (full and fair as she lay at her anchor), and the other falling close alongside. The two guns on the forward turret were then fired and their shells in exploding threw up great jets of spray close to the Colon.

Spanish Batteries Open Fire.
All the shore batteries took up the challenge and began a rapid fire for the Massachusetts. But she was soon behind her range, and the batteries thereupon turned their guns on the New Orleans. This cruiser had been directed to pay attention to the batteries, and to draw their fire as much as possible, and she obeyed her instructions to the letter. Her first shot located a large battery on the hill above the Morro. It flew straight into the fort, and a great cloud of dust and debris rose as the shell burst. A couple more shots sent part of the walls of Morro flying into the air, and then the New Orleans confined herself to the batteries, her fire being rapid and extremely accurate.
Every shot she fired made trouble for Spain.

SPANISH MISHLES FALL SHORT.
While the American shots tear up the Earth Most Savagely.

The Iowa came next, and like the Massachusetts devoted her attention to the ships lying within the harbor. Her 12-inch shells made the water fly all around that part of the harbor in which the Cristobal Colon lay. The latter, however, was not seriously damaged and kept up her fire until long after the American ship steamed out of range.

After the Iowa came the little Vixen, which apparently had no business in a fight where battleships were engaged.
But she scudded along after the Iowa like a fox terrier following a mastiff, and when at the proper point she let fly with her one 6-pounder and glided away, proudly conscious of having done her best.

After the Vixen had passed the forts the Massachusetts turned again westward, followed by the other ships in the same order with the exception of the Vixen, which was ordered to keep out of trouble. The ironclads bore down on the harbor once more. The flag-ship kept in until less than 400 yards from the shore, and then her shells again began to heave up the waters of Santiago harbor. This time the shore batteries were better served, and the Spaniards replied to the warship's fire in energetic fashion. But nearly all the shots from the batteries fell short. Then came the New Orleans once more, her long black guns doing fearful work, and pouring up the ground all around the batteries in the most savage manner.

The Spaniards dropped shells close to the Iowa as she came by for the second time, sending a stream of shells into the harbor as she did so. The Spanish ships, with the exception of the Cristobal Colon, were behind the hills, and could not see the enemy who threw shells around them with such rapidity.
But they knew he was somewhere on the other side of the hill and then hopefully raised the muzzles of their guns and barked away. The result was what might have been expected. Their fire tore the bosom of the Caribbean sea, but it harmed nothing else. After the Massachusetts had passed the point where she could fire into the harbor with advantage she turned to the open sea, the other vessels following her.
That fight was over as far as the Americans were concerned.

Not an American vessel was struck, and not a sailor injured, although fully 200 shots were fired by the Spaniards, the Americans firing but over one-fourth of that number in return.

Cervera in Command at the Fight.
Madrid, June 2.—Despite statements of the newspapers that Admiral Cervera was not present at the bombardment of Santiago de Cuba on Tuesday, Captain Aunon, the minister of marine, in an interview declares that Cervera hoisted his flag on the Cristobal Colon in order to direct the Spanish operations, "the success of which is principally due to Cervera, who has given proofs of high strategic ability."

WILD WIND WORKS HAVOC.
Brainerd, Minn., Visited by the (Business) End of a Hurricane.

St. Paul, June 3.—A special to The Pioneer Press from Brainerd, Minn., says: This city was visited by a terrific wind storm yesterday afternoon, accompanied by rain and hail, doing thousands of damage to property. The wind swept through the residence portion of the city, wrecking out-buildings, uprooting shade trees, demolishing glass store fronts and tearing off tin roofs.
The city wagon bridge, connecting the business portion with East Brainerd, was completely wrecked, and is lying flat in the bottom of a ravine, as is also the bridge owned by C. N. Parker and used for electric street car line.

The city park is ruined, not one-fifth of the trees remaining standing. The entire roof on the cupola running the full length of the railroad blacksmith shop was blown off and the slate roof ruined. The tower in which was the city bell used for fire alarm purposes was blown flat and wrecked. Thirteen freight cars standing in a dump were picked up and thrown in a pile together. A brick store building owned by John Brute's is completely blown down, and the residence of Henry Holm unroofed. No fatalities are reported.

EUROPEAN COMMENT

On the Situation as It Involves the Fate of Admiral Cervera's Squadron.

OPINION THAT IT HAS ESCAPED.

Which, However, Is Handicapped Because It Is Not Heard from Elsewhere—France the Most Likely to Try the Virtue of Intervention—Sentiment for Peace Growing in Spain—Castela's Attack on the Queen Regent—Santiago News.

London, June 3.—Yesterday's news and that which comes this morning has brought no fresh feature into the situation except increased mystification as to whether Admiral Cervera is really at Santiago de Cuba. The Madrid correspondents of the morning papers make the point that the persistence with which Senor Sagasta and Captain Aunon (the minister of marine) assert Cervera's presence there is a mere attempt to mislead the enemy. On the other hand it is argued that Admiral Cervera could not be in a safer place and that if Admiral Camara could succeed in entering another West Indian harbor and thus employ two American squadrons in the work of blockading, Spain's policy of delay would be assisted. But for the negative evidence that Admiral Cervera has not been seen elsewhere London opinion leans to the theory that he escaped from Santiago harbor either before Sunday or possibly under cover of the torpedo manoeuvres Sunday night.

Regarding European Intervention.
With regard to reports of European intervention the Vienna correspondents of both The Daily Chronicle and Daily News deny that the Austrian government has received any fresh communication from Spain. It would appear therefore that any efforts in this direction are being made only in France, where they are apparently the most likely to succeed. It is understood that M. Hanotaux and other ministers regard the present situation as intolerable. A protracted war, besides disturbing commerce, would necessitate postponing the coming exhibition. It is hoped that the new commercial agreement between France and the
